CLOSE GAME IN RUGGER ON SATURDAY

Red and White Win from Montreal Club

AT STADIUM

McGill Shows Great Improvement Since Last Game

The McGill English Rugby team gained their first victory of the season at the Stadium on Saturday, when they defeated the Montreal English team by 9-8, after a very hard fought and closely contested game. Although the score shows only a one point victory, yet McGill scored three tries to their opponent's goal and penalty field goal, inability to convert reducing McGill's score by six.

Play throughout the game kept moving from one end of the field to the other, with McGill having a slight edge throughout. The three-quarter lines were evenly matched, but the Red and White had the better of the forward play, their men being more aggressive and quicker on the ball. The halves were very evenly matched, but Montreal did not seem as strong here as on their last meeting with McGill.

The McGill team seemed to have improved very considerably since their last game; they worked a great deal better together, and the three quarters especially played well, getting off several very fine passing runs, bringing the ball the length of the field several times. The Montrealeers, on the other hand, while they worked hard, did not display the same snap as they did in their other game with McGill, the fact that Wanstall, their star three-quarter, was not playing, weakened them somewhat.

At the commencement of play Montreal rushed the ball down as far as McGill's three yard line, where it went into touch. A free kick for McGill relieved the situation, and securing the ball at midfield, the McGill forwards rushed the ball down and over Montreal's goal line, but Walsh saved by touching down, the ball being brought out 25 yards. Play remained at midfield after this for several minutes.

ATHLETIC UNION ADMITS NEW TEAM

C.I.A.U. Grants U. of Montreal Full Membership

At a meeting in Kingston on Saturday last, the University of Montreal was admitted into full membership in the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union. Montreal had made application to the Intercollegiate Hockey Union last year, but found it necessary first to get permission from the C.I.A.U., the governing body. Their constitution was much the same as that of the McGill Athletic Association. It was ratified as being in accordance with the intercollegiate rules.

The French college will now have to be accepted by the sporting union of each of the colleges concerned before they can be included on their schedules. If allowed to do so the University of Montreal intend to enter teams in hockey, track, tennis and basketball this year. Later they will extend their activities. Application will be made first to the Hockey Union for permission to play in this winter's series. Toronto objected to their entry last year because of their very heavy schedule.

With Montreal in the series, Toronto would have to make an extra trip. However, it is to be hoped that they will be able to do so. Interest in the series, always great, would be greatly enhanced by the addition of a fourth team.

The Freshman Rule, barring first year students from athletics, should have come up for discussion at this meeting of the C.I.A.U., but it was held over until the next meeting, as the business on hand kept the delegates until early Sunday morning.

PHILLIP KERR TO ADDRESS STUDENT BODY

Under Auspices of McGill Canadian Club

EMINENT SPEAKER

Head of Downing Street Secretariat During War

Mr. Phillip Kerr, formerly secretary to Lloyd George, will speak to the students of McGill on Wednesday or Thursday of this week, under the auspices of the McGill Canadian Club. The address will be given at either the Union or in the Convocation Hall at R.V.C. The exact date and place have not yet been decided on, but will be announced soon.

Mr. Kerr was educated at New College, Oxford, where he gained a valuable training for his later work. After graduation, he joined Lord Milner in South Africa, and together with Sir Edward Greig, John Buchan, and Lionel Curtis, helped to prepare the way for the South African Union. His abilities soon attracted notice, and he filled several important administrative posts in the South African government from 1905 to 1908.

He then went to England, and from 1910 to 1916 filled the post of editor of the "Round Table." When Lloyd George took office as premier, Mr. Kerr was appointed head of the Secretariat at 10 Downing Street, and during the whole period of his office, from 1917 to 1921, rendered invaluable services in the cause of the Empire.

The position which Mr. Kerr has held in the innermost circle of British politics has given him an unequalled opportunity of forming a first hand opinion of British present day policy both at home and abroad. As an author of note he has written books on political science, which are held in high regard as authorities on the subject of British politics. Having been active in politics for so many years he is well qualified to throw light on the present parliamentary crisis in England; a matter of all-engaging interest just at present.

A fortnight ago Mr. Kerr gave a short address at the University of Toronto.

'VARSITY-QUEEN'S SCORE

Definite word was received in the "Daily" office last evening that the game between 'Varsity and Queen's necessitated by a tie in the Intercollegiate series due to the defeat of the former by 'Varsity, would be played in the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium next Saturday, November 18. Tickets will be on sale at the office of the Students' Council commencing tomorrow, Tuesday, at one o'clock.

JUNIOR TEAM SUCCESSFUL ON SATURDAY

First Rugby Team to Visit Quebec Wins Game

SCORE 24-5

Excellent Team Work of McGill Squad Gives Victory

The McGill Junior Rugby team concluded its 1922 season in Quebec City on Saturday, when a victory was scored over the team representative of the Quebec Swimming and Athletic Club. The final score was 24-5, and although the McGill team were leading by a majority of 17 points at half time, the home squad showed a great fighting spirit, which finally resulted in the scoring of a try in the third quarter.

The McGill team has the edge of their opponents in weight, which, together with the advantage derived from able coaching, accounts largely for their victory. The Quebec aggregation was also greatly handicapped by the absence of two of their star players in the persons of Price and Addy.

The Quebec rugby fans had their first opportunity of witnessing a rugby team from McGill, and those who attended, in spite of a drizzle of rain, were treated to a clean brand of football, which was happily devoid of any rough play by either aggregations. The Q. S. A. C. is a club organized only a couple of years ago, and the game on Saturday was arranged in an effort to popularize rugby in the Ancient Capital. The win registered by McGill is quite creditable, as it is the first loss registered against the home team this season.

The game was handled to the satisfaction of all by a former McGill gridiron star, Gendron, who starred on the local Intercollegiate team of 1913. McGill took the lead early in the first quarter, when two rouges and a beautiful field goal were scored from the boot of Gorrie. The locals held the visitors well in this period, but in the second stanza McGill got away to some fine line plunges and end runs, which were finally carried across their opponents' goal line.

ARTS UNDERGRADS' SOCIETY MEETING

Important Questions to Be Discussed Tonight

A regular meeting of the Arts Undergraduate Society will be held at 8.15 tonight in the ball room of the Union. During the past few years the meetings of this society have been held during the noon hour and whatever business came up for discussion had to be rushed through with great speed. It is felt that there is much to be gained by holding a longer meeting where discussion can be carried on more leisurely.

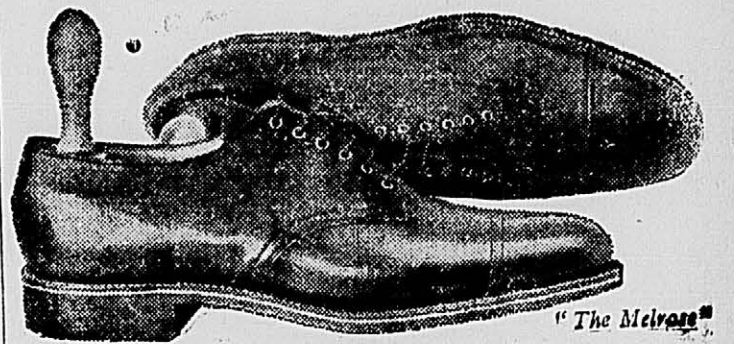

The programme for tonight's meeting is a very important and interesting one. There will be the regular business of the society to discuss; and added to this there is the question of relationships between Arts and Commerce. The executives of the Arts Undergrad and of the Commercial Society have been working on this very important question ever since the term opened. It is not expected that any action will be taken tonight but the meeting may pave the way for some radical changes in the very near future.

A debate is to take place between Arts '23 represented by Wells and Freeman, and Commerce '23, represented by Brewer and Goldsmith. The subject of the debate is: "Resolved, that under the British form of government the 'two-party' system is preferable to the 'group' system." The Commerce Seniors will uphold the affirmative. Dean Laing has kindly consented to act as chairman of the judges.

Windy Brewer is in charge of the musical programme for the evening. He promises to have a good orchestra present.

Ralph Collins of the McGill Glee Club will sing the new Arts song which was first published in the New McGill Song Book. E. W. Willard, of Arts '23, who composed both the words and the music of the song, will accompany the soloist.

As it is not expected that anyone will be "fed-up" by this programme refreshments will be served.

SYRACUSE AND MCGILL

McGill's first appearance on a rugby field in the United States in many years was a success. The Red and White was beaten by the Syracuse team, but from the newspaper accounts the game was not as unequal as the score would seem to indicate. It is safe to assume that the contest was a source of benefit to both competitors, serving to point out to the Canadians certain superiorities in the American style of play, while demonstrating to the Americans that certain features of the Canadian game might be adopted with advantage by them. Syracuse is to be congratulated on her victory, while McGill should not be too despondent over her defeat; she was beaten by an aggregation which ranks high in American rugby circles and the showing made was not at all discreditable to a Canadian team struggling under American rules.

Those students from McGill who were fortunate enough to journey south to witness the contest were most favourably impressed with the treatment meted out to them by the Americans, who went even so far as to supply the visitors from Montreal with free seats in reserved sections. In addition, arrangements had been completed to afford the Canadian students entertainment during their sojourn in the city. The McGill men who attended the dance given in their honour were affected strongly, it need hardly be mentioned, by the spacious and fully equipped gymnasium which was the scene of the event. Meetings between American and Canadian colleges deserve promotion at all times, but particularly when they succeed in bringing about fraternization between the undergraduates of the universities concerned to the extent that this has been accomplished during the last year by the contact McGill has formed with Syracuse.

IDEALISM IN EDUCATION

Every attentive reader of the newspapers and periodicals of the day must be increasingly aware of the present tendency to dwell to an excessive extent on the evil, corruption and dirtiness of life. The daily papers are full of sensational stories of crime and startling exposures, for example, of the drug traffic or of political graft. Even in the serious literature of the times this taint can be observed, and the novel of realism is substituting a minute and accurate delineation of the vulgar side of life for a true picture of life as a whole.

Now we do not wish to shirk the knowledge of the truth, and we are not afraid to face any fact, however ugly it may appear. It can not be doubted that every single individual is, in a great measure, responsible for the sins of society. It is more questionable, however, if we are taking the wisest way to mend them. Many are the good effects of turning the searchlight on dark places; but the continuous yellow glare bids fair to rob us of our normal vision. We are in danger of overdoing the exposure of wrong, and slighting the incentives to right action, emphasizing the negative, and forgetting the positive.

The aspect of the matter which is of especial interest to us is the educational aspect. Whether or not our study of evil should be lessened, our study of the good must be vastly strengthened. It is not through sitting in an ash-can and wailing that great nations are built, but through the resolute dwelling with high ideals. "Your young men shall see visions," said the prophet, for we knew that to take away from youth the power of seeing visions and dreaming dreams is to destroy the future. And yet, more and more our universities are in danger of becoming glorified trade schools, turning out technical specialists uneducated in all but the subject of their profession. Education is being stripped of the humanities. The power to image, to fashion high ideals, and to create along the lines of the imagining is weakening instead of growing stronger.

We need, as we have never needed before, a broader and deeper study of history, of literature and of philosophy. Let education consist, to a greater extent, of an offering of finely expressed thought and concrete examples of good upon which the imagination of youth may find nourishment. It is only an education that stimulates a love of truth and beauty that can develop the spirit that will make a great nation upholding faithfully the traditions of the past.

RUGBY PLAY-OFF TO BE HELD HERE

Montreal to See Varsity and Queen's Battle

Queen's University and Toronto Varsity will play at the Percival Molson Memorial Stadium next Saturday afternoon for the championship of the Canadian Intercollegiate Rugby Football Union. The decision to play in Montreal came at the special request of the Queen's players. At the meeting held in Kingston on Saturday night, Toronto objected to playing in Montreal, and agreed to stage the contest either in Kingston or Toronto, whichever city Queen's should choose. However, the Kingston team held that McGill had been forced to play in Kingston for the championship in 1920, and from a sporting point of view, the only thing they could do would be to allow the McGill students to watch the play-off game on this occasion.

brands them as a sporting aggregation, for they really thought that they would have a better opportunity of defeating their rivals in Toronto than in Montreal. The Queen City is not subject to bad weather in the early fall, as Montreal is, and there would be a much better chance of having a good hard field to play on, this condition being absolutely necessary if their fast end runs are to be successfully staged.

The sale of tickets will start immediately, but due to the short time for the sale, no mail or telephone orders will be accepted. It is quite probable that students will be able to buy tickets at reduced price, although this has not been definitely ascertained.

It's never too late to be sorry: I'm sorry I've been given the air. I wish they would lift from my shoulders

The grind I've been given to bear. I can't mend the grades I've been given;

There's not a way clear I can see. Though it's never too late to e-sorry.

CAPTAIN CUTTLE'S COLUMN

It is now two weeks since I have had an opportunity of giving advice to any of the numerous readers of this column, and unfortunately it is even longer since it has been possible to answer any of the letters that have been flooding the Daily office asking help and advice on many varied and important topics. A special office boy has been engaged, and he has been employed continuously day and night, working twenty-five hours a day and twenty-three during the night in classifying and indexing and compiling statistics of the questions that are being asked. Homer, the office boy, is of opinion that these may prove of some interest. The figures are as follows: Letters from co-eds asking advice on matters of the heart, 2,056; letters from members of the Faculty of Medicine which have had to be suppressed, 1,099; questions from members of all faculties in regard to the attentions of the fair collegians of R.V.C., 2,313; poetical effusions, 7; questions that I don't know how to answer, 11. Answers to a few of the epistles first sent in.

NOTE

All correspondence in this department should be addressed to Captain Cuttle, McGill Daily, and will be published every Monday morning.

Communications must have name, address, place and date of birth, and be accompanied by marriage license of parents, and 3 cents in German marks.

No notice will be taken of anonymous contributions unless they are signed.

All letters must be written on three sides of the paper, and if a personal answer is required must be unaccompanied by the writer's address.

Questions relating to health and hygiene should be forwarded to the Director of Physical Education, Molson Hall, enclosing a certificate of vaccination.

SCIENCE FROSH

I am a Science freshman and am in doubt concerning certain facts. If you will be so good as to publish the answers I shall be greatly obliged.

1. I have been walking out with a girl from the R.V.C. for about a month. We have been to the Venetian and to Loew's; are her intentions serious, or is it safe to take her to an informal?

2. How can one remove powder from a blue suit?

3. To settle an argument with my lady friend, is it hygienic to kiss on the mouth? She says it is, I say it is not.

4. Do the Faculty consider a "hang-over" an excuse off morning lectures?

5. Where can I obtain beer after 10 p.m.?

Yours truly,

EARNEST INQUIRER.

1. Take her to the Jardin—if she can stand that she's serious.
2. If it is not Mavis it is a mark of distinction to leave it there.
3. That depends on the mouth. It may be more hygienic for you than for her.
4. That again is relative. If you "hung-over" the steps of any member of the Faculty it might be a good excuse for leaving the course.
5. I reveal secrets only to my closest friends.

SONG WANTED

Would you kindly furnish me with a copy of the words of that grand old song entitled "My Gal's a Hula." The tune is a very beautiful adaptation of an old negro melody. As a member of the Glee Club I am interesting in procuring this good old ballad for performance by that organization. Many of my friends have urged me to choose a song in which there is no mention of either the rising or the falling of the tide, so I hope that this old song will fulfill the requirements.

CANTA CANTATA.

Ans.—I am appending the song hereunder. Although the first verse has some reference to the wash of the sea, there is no reference to the diurnal ebb and flow of the tide and is thus safe for rendering by the organization you mention.

My Gal's a Hula

The old man fell in the ocean:
They thought they'd see him no more,
So they threw him out a cake of soap
And he washed himself ashore.

Chorus—

O my gal's a hula,
Every inch a hula,
Lulu, that old gal o' mine.

The old man fell in the sewer,
And in the sewer died,
And at the coroner's inquest
They called it sewericide.

Of all the fish in the ocean
I'd rather be a whale,
I'd climb right up on a great big rock
And slide down on my tail.

Salome was a dancer,
So snappy, it is said,
That when she shook a shimmy
Old John, he lost his head.

He wears a narrow collar,
He wears a narrow shirt,
And if he was a girl,
He'd wear a narrow skirt.

Lulu chews tobacco,
And Lulu drinks bay-rum:
But Lulu is a lady—
She won't touch chewing gum.

Lulu had a fellow.
He died, 'twas just as well,
So Lulu told the sexton,
And the sexton tolled the bell.

Lulu was so pious
She loved both friends and foes;
The naked every day she clad
When she put on her clothes.

Lulu has a fine limousine in which to ride,
She also has a pair of them
On which to walk or stride.

Lulu had a baby,
She called it Sunny Jim.
She couldn't call it Lulu,
Because it was a him.

KING BEAVER

Dear Cap.—

A group of public spirited sportsmen have decided to render a signal service to all the lovers of the manly sport of beaver, and at the same time provide the ex-Minister of Defense and Militia of the late Progressive Government with steady employment. Our offer is this. If the above gentleman will grow a beard we will present him with a green bicycle on condition that he rides it about the campus. This, we believe, will furnish much enjoyment to the collegiate Beaver players who will then have the opportunity of spotting a real King Beaver—a red bearded gentleman on a green bicycle.

BEAVERBORD.

Ans.—I am sure that your offer will be very much appreciated, but am rather sceptical of the ability of the aforementioned gentleman to raise any more hair than he has at present.

ARE FATHERS HOT?

Dear Cap.—

Writing in a city paper this week, a "Canadian" asked if mothers are cold.

I wish you would tell me if all fathers are hot? I hate to ask Mother.

AU REVOIR ET MERCI.

Ans.—Speaking as a father, I may say that all fathers are hot when in receipt of their sons' college bills or of exam. results. They then try to make it hot for the aforesaid sons.

CORRESPONDENCE

The Daily is not responsible for the sentiments of letters published in the correspondence columns. Signed communications from graduates, undergraduates and members of the faculties will be placed in print if they are not of too great length.

Correspondents are requested to observe the unwritten law of the newspaper office—that they write upon ONE SIDE of the paper ONLY.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Sir.—A very decided and definite expression of opinion was made on Saturday by a large number of undergraduates that the letter of Wm. L. Robertson appearing in Saturday's paper should be answered. In his letter Mr. Robertson suggests that the McGill Daily is drifting into that class of publications which reflects no credit upon the press, and states that for "bad taste and scurrilousness 'Quips' can only be classed with 'yellow' journalism."

On first reading, Mr. Robertson's letter causes a sense of shocked surprise which soon turns to hearty laughter. Someone has taken "Quips" seriously! This is a rather doubtful honour, as the column is said to contain humour. It has been accepted as humour by the majority of the students. To be sure, it is impossible for every student in the university to understand every paragraph—due to the nature of the column that would be crediting one man with an impossibly enormous acquaintanceship—but for those students who have understood the references properly the column has contained humour, and has been welcomed for that reason. A real joke depends much upon the spontaneous appreciation of the hearer or reader, and rarely will exist if a laboured explanation is required.

As supporting "Quips" in the above paragraph, apparently I have identified myself with "those sordid-minded individuals who delight in hearing of the indiscretions of others." It may be as well to go over the letter in question in some detail. The "Daily" is referred to in comparison with a weekly newspaper being published in town, and "Quips" is characterized as similar to a column in that paper. I am not in a position to follow Mr. Robertson in this comparison as this paper never has interested me sufficiently to read it. "As an example of inanity, especially bad taste and downright scurrilousness, etc." For the reasons stated above, the "Quips" column may appear inane and senseless to some—no student can expect to understand every paragraph because of the great difference in interests of contributors to the column. It might be well to leave the matter of bad taste to the judgment of those persons to whom reference has been made in the column and from whom no objections have arisen. Scurrility is defined as coarse vulgar abuse, and charges of that nature as grossly offensive. A careful perusal of "Quips" brings to light nothing warranting that characterization.

The remainder of the letter so patently is based on the false premises that "Quips" is a very serious and supposedly corrective agency, that it borders on the ridiculous. Surely no one has imagined that the items in the column are gathered by a staff scattered throughout the university, enormous, as it would have to be to gather incidents from the many different quarters from which "Quips" are contributed. No one desires to pry into any other student's private business; much less to expose it publicly, and "Quips" never has pretended to do that. I have not been able to find one reference made to the action of any student which has been serious enough to be termed an "indiscretion." "Quips" is not a serious column and never has been. That explanation has spoiled the joke for some of us.

The only connection which I have had with the column has been as a student contributing two paragraphs. The hilarity caused by their publication was an indication of the favourable reception "Quips" is being accorded by the great majority of the students, including particularly those students who have been mentioned in the column.

Very sincerely yours,
ROBERT F. OGILVY, Sc. '24.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Sir.—As one who realizes what a short time is left, per schedule, at the disposal of fifth year Medicine, and the consequent need for overcoming to some extent the relative insufficiency common to most units of a similar kind, I would like to offer a suggestion which may lead to more progressive team work.

I refer to the matter of asking questions; which calls for a general classification (a) to obtain knowledge, (b) to indicate that the answer to "one's" question is already known. The first is a privilege we are invited to enjoy. The second is a type that is tolerated as part of human nature—but the complications offer trouble.

During an hour devoted to the benefit of a whole group does it not seem well advised to limit an individual question recital to five minutes, for the caution that the subject may not be of general interest; it can be dealt with later. Again, would it not be more pleasing to generalize, rather than specify, when discussing choice of treatment? Alternative idol-worship or appreciation of the work entailed in giving a clinic will surely do away with the use of the latter.

I trust you will give publication to this letter, for it will call to attention a matter which is almost imperceptible but nevertheless incipient.

Yours truly,

C. J. F. P., Med. '23.

The Editor, McGill Daily.

Sir.—Re the reply (in your Nov. 9th issue) to our letter, we would like to say that, in the first case, we did not question the statement that "the breaks were entirely with the McGill team." We will insist, however, that McGill did not go through Mac's line "like water through a sieve," and that 90 per cent of her plays were not end runs. If so, where did all the line plunging featured in the report come in? The remaining 10 per cent of the play?

With regard to McGill kicking when two yards from the line, we desired to have it explained why McGill should have kicked. When, according to former statements, one was led to believe she could have made her yards. Therein lies the inconsistency we complain of. True, Mac lost her ball under similar circumstances, but no one claimed she could have made her yards.

We do not consider it a disgrace to be beaten by the McGill Juniors, but we do object to a report of the game representing one team as playing all the football, and the other just "lining up."

Sincerely yours,

C. R. MITCHELL,
J. A. MCGARIGLE.

MCGILL LOSES TO SYRACUSE IN SPECTACULAR GAME

10,000 Spectators Cheer Lustily as McGill Fights Gamely Against Orange Eleven—Red and White Superior in Tackling—Flanagan a Bearcat—Wonderful Sportsmanship of Syracusean Rooters.

Beaten, but game to the end, Shag's men played the Syracuse eleven in one of the most spectacular games ever witnessed in the Orange bowl on Saturday. The following account, adapted from the "Syracuse Post-Standard," expresses the thoughts of 10,000 Orange men who, when giving vent to their feelings, yelled in one accord, "Don't forget, McGill, when you arrange Syracuse's home schedule for 1923."

It was a real treat, the article continues—ten thousand persons forgot their Orange partisanship and athletic patriotism in the thrills Syracuse's international gridiron contest against McGill offered.

The 32 to 0 score for the Orange variety indicates the superiority of the heavier American eleven. It was a decisive but steady game for Syracuse, from start to finish, with the final result never in doubt. In exactly four minutes Syracuse had pushed over for a touchdown. Then came McGill's turn to receive the ball, and McGill's turn to launch their offensive. The crowd shook off its lethargy and eyed the gridiron with renewed interest.

Just one play the game progressed—and 10,000 spectators had been transformed into a mob of howling football maniacs, and not yelling for Syracuse to stop the McGill assault either. They were beseeching the Canadian boys, and there were rabid partisan Syracuseans in the crowd of fans to "come on, boys, and get a touchdown!" There wasn't a Syracusean rooter left in the stands. "Come on, McGill!" It was a splendid tribute to the McGill team. It was a remarkable exhibition of crowd psychology, that atmospheric change from Orange to Red.

It wasn't McGill's inability to crash through for a gain that won the crowd. It was just the reverse. For the Red and White offensive of rugby inception and not strictly according to the American code though it was, held a dozen or more threats.

One could write several pamphlets on the lateral forward pass as introduced on Saturday on the American continent by McGill. It was as new to Yankee football as it was pleasing to those 10,000 football fans on the hill. It was as threatening as it was spectacular. In short, it transformed a football exhibition into a football battle. It made a real game out of what, at the outset, appeared to be an uninteresting game at the stadium on Saturday.

Those forward passes, combined with quarter back Baillie's quick wits, earned 12 first downs for McGill. Twelve first downs for the team considered the weakest on the schedule. Certainly most remarkable when one recalls that Penn State could gain only seven, and Nebraska, Pitt and Brown could not earn more than five. And seven of McGill's first downs were earned against the Orange variety combination. Technically, undoubtedly, hardly one of those wide flank runs, with six or seven McGill players marking the progress of the ball along the line, could be called strictly legal under the American code.

But the fact unalterably remains that McGill's offensive rushed the variety off its feet for certain spectacular moments of the most spectacular game ever staged in the big Orange bowl, and the fact just as unalterably remains that McGill's defensive did what it took Nebraska's, Pitts and Penn State's best to do! The Red and White held the Orange for downs. In those few minutes in the last quarter when four tries gained the variety hardly an inch, when Kellogg, Zimmerman and Bowman were thrown for no gains, Frank Shaughnessy's rugby stars rose to great heights of defensive football.

Syracuse never saw better tackling than it saw Saturday. Sure and true, hard and clean were those tackles, and those McGill tacklers Syracuse could well take a lesson or two from its guests from the Dominion. Flanagan, in particular, was a bearcat, together with Manson, Captain Ambridge and the McGill backs.

VARSIITY WINS FROM QUEEN'S IN KINGSTON

Blue and White Team in Top Form in Mud

SCORE 24-1

Two Teams Tie for Honors—Play-off Here Saturday

In keeping with the other intercollegiate football games of this year, Queens, the home team, was on the short end of a 24 to 1 score in their return game with Varsity. Both teams lost their home games. But for Queens, it might be said that the weather was against them. The field was sodden and heavy, and rain drizzled down all afternoon. In this going, the Blue and White were at home, and proved their ability to stand up against a team which had beaten them in a previous encounter this season.

From the first whistle right until the game was over, the Varsity players showed marked superiority over the tri-colour twelve, in both individual and team work. Only once did Queens threaten to cross the Blue and White line. Batstone started the play, and after a punting duel between the tri-colour back and Snyder, Snyder was downed on his 20-yard line. Then a forward pass by Varsity and the ball was given to Queens. But failing to make yards on the first downs, a kick was signalled and Leadley kicked into touch-in-goal for Queens' lone point.

It was hard to pick out any single star on the Toronto defence. But mention must be made of the stellar playing of Warren Snyder. In the early part of the game he dashed down the field and managed to recover his own kick, and finished the play by diving over the line for a touchdown. Duncan also was instrumental in breaking through the Presbyterians' line for many substantial gains.

Many rooters accompanied the Toronto team to Kingston, and revelled in their victory, and after the game the Blue and White supporters held a "march triumphant" the like of which has never before been witnessed in the Limestone City. Not content with a mere parade around the town after the game, the visitors camped in the street in front of the hotel where their team were quartered, and building a huge bonfire, continued to pour forth ovals to their gridiron warriors.

Some details of the game follow:

Snyder kicked off, when Toronto won the toss. A little later Duncan and Snyder plunged through for yards. Followed a punting duel in which MacPherson fell on the ball after a Queen's man fumbled a catch. Both teams lost the ball for interference. Toronto again in possession on the tri-colour's 30-yard line but an end run by Duncan and Snyder failed and Leadley kicked into Varsity territory. The Blue and White failed to gain yards in two downs, and Snyder kicked high. It was here that Snyder made the remarkable recovery of his own kick, ending in a touchdown for the visitors. Duncan converted. Toronto, 6; Queens, 0.

Play was resumed, and soon again the Presbyterian's line was threatened. But after working the ball up to the ten-yard line, Toronto lost possession for interference, and Leadley kicked into touch on his 35-yard line. Snyder punted back to Queens 10-yard line. Here Leadley's attempted kick was blocked, and Webber dribbled the all over the line, falling on the pigskin at the same time as Batstone. The referee would not allow a touchdown and gave the all to Toronto, where it was kicked from. Line gained 12 yards on a smash through left tackle. Zimmerman was downed by Crane after a five-yard gain. Walsh replaced Cope. McBride sliced eight yards off right tackle for first down. Bowman on a wide left end run gained eight yards. Bowman got first down through centre. McBride went through tackle for a touchdown. He failed to kick the goal and the count was Syracuse 26, McGill 0.

Fourth Quarter

Zimmerman kicked to Flanagan who was downed on McGill 11-yard line. Bailey gained five yards through centre. Bailey fumbled, but recovered. Murphy punted to Kellogg who was downed on his own 30-yard line. Cope replaced by C. Cope. A long forward pass from Kellogg was grounded. A forward pass Simmons to Zimmerman gained first down for Syracuse. A forward pass Simmons to Kellogg gained eight yards. Simmons gained five yards and first down through centre. Simmons' forward pass was grounded. Little intercepted Simmons' forward pass. McGill took the ball at midfield. Syracuse sent in six substitutes. An end run on a double pass gained first down for McGill. A triple pass around right end gained three yards. A smash at centre gained first down. The game ended with the score, Syracuse 32; McGill 0.

McGill continued its barrage of intricate passing in the fourth period, throwing the ball around with reckless abandon but failed to gain. Syracuse adopted McGill's own style of play and uncorked a series of plays, plunges failed and MacPherson's attempted drop kick went wide of the goal, and Batstone, receiving the catch, was downed for a rouge just as quarter-time sounded. Score: Toronto, 7; Queens, 0.

A series of punting duels started in the second quarter. Leadley again fumbled a catch, giving Toronto the ball on his 25-yard line. Snyder and Duncan made a good gain by an end run, but the second down failed. Hobbs kicked on-side, and before Queens could gain possession, Duncan received the ball and went over for a touch, when he converted. Toronto, 13; Queens, 0.

Leadley soon fumbled another catch in centre-field, and Westman kicked the ball out of his hands, over the goal-line; Leadley was too quick for the Varsity player, and recovered the ball for a rouge.

Soon after play commenced Snyder hurdled the line on a down, in mid-field, and made 40 yards, but the play was recalled for off-side interference. An exchange of punts followed, and Snyder kicked into touch for a point. Score: Toronto, 15; Queens, 0.

Queens now staged a rally. McKelvey and Evans made yards on line plays. Leadley punted over Snyder's head, and the play was brought to Toronto's 23-yard line. Leadley again fumbled in centre field. Varsity secured possession, and Snyder was stopped on the tri-colour's 20-yard line. MacPherson again attempted a drop kick, which failed; the ball bounded to the dead-line, giving Toronto another point. Half time.

In the third quarter Snyder began to show great form running back kicks for long gains, and punting over the Queens line for two more points. Batstone being downed behind the line on each occasion. Score: Toronto, 18; Queens, 0.

The Presbyterians showed signs of rallying again. McKelvey and Evans made some substantial gains. Toronto stiffened and held the line, and Leadley turned to a kicking game. The third quarter ended with the Queens ball on their 30-yard line.

In the last quarter, Varsity obtained the ball at mid-field, and before the tired tri-colour squad could organize, Somerville went through the line and second defense, and running down the field, eluded Batstone and Leadley, and went over for the Blue and White's final touchdown. Duncan converted. Score: Toronto, 24; Queens, 0.

Leadley kept the ball in Varsity's territory by a kicking game, and finding his team unable to plunge through the opposing line, he kicked over the goal-line for a point. Toronto, 24; Queens, 1.

No further score was made by either team. The Blue and White pressed hard, but were unable to break through their opponents' defence before the final whistle sounded.

Final score: Toronto, 24; Queens, 1.

successful forward passes interjected with line bucks and then a steady march down the field to within scoring distance of the goal line. Here the scarlet clad Canadians held Syracuse for downs. On the first down McGill punted from behind its own goal line and Baysinger blocked the kick. Starobin recovered for Syracuse and went over for the fifth and last touchdown of the game.

In the third quarter Glascoe picked the ball out of the air on a fumble by Quebec and carried it to within 5 yards of the opponents' line before being nabbed. Two downs, however, carried the ball across for McGill's last touchdown, which was not converted. Gorrie's kicking again accounted for two points before the close of the game. Quebec alone were able to score on a splendid run by Perry, which brought five points to the home team. Towards the end of the game Gameron received a blow on the head which, although not serious, necessitated his removal from the game.

Wiggs, of the home team, staged some splendid runs and bucks, and Gillespie showed great promise as a kicker. Inasmuch as several of the Quebec team expect to attend McGill next season, the college will certainly benefit greatly by their appearance here next season.

eral minutes, when Montreal, by an on-side kick, brought the ball to McGill's one yard line and nearly got a try. From a five yard scrum the McGill forwards worked the ball up to mid-field, but Montreal secured here and worked it back to McGill's forty yard line, and on being awarded a free kick on a McGill off-side, Foulkes put a beautiful drop kick across the bar. Montreal, 3; McGill, 0.

From the kick-off McGill forced the play by fine three-quarter and forward work, brought the ball to within a few yards of Montreal's goal line, when Patterson secured and ran around the end for a try, which Cooper failed to convert.

McGill, 3; Montreal, 3.

From the kick-off McGill three-quarters secured and ran the ball back thirty-five yards. The Montreal forwards relieved, however, but the Red and White "threes" again rushed the ball down, and were pressing Montreal hard with the ball on their three-yard line when the whistle blew for half-time.

McGill continued to press at the start of the second half, and fine passing runs by the back division, ended in Holmon going across for a try, which was not converted. McGill, 6; Montreal, 3.

Play stayed around mid-field after this, with neither side having any particular advantage, until McGill forwards worked the ball down and went across, but were brought back for off-side. Montreal broke through and went nearly the length of the field before they were stopped, but they pressed hard and once crossed McGill's line, but were off-side. Finally the McGill forwards relieved and, working the ball up to within a few yards of the line, Wilson secured and went over for McGill's third and last try, which was again not converted.

McGill, 9; Montreal.

From then on till the end of the game Montreal were on the offensive, and their efforts were finally rewarded, when after losing the ball several times near McGill's goal line, Lawrence went over for a try between the posts, it being converted. The final whistle went a moment later, leaving the score, McGill, 9; Montreal, 8.

MCGILL WINS HARD SOCCER GAME

Theologs Defeated in Return Match

The McGill soccer team playing a return game against the Theologs on Saturday afternoon last, were able to turn in a victory of 1-0. The slippery condition of the field made sure kicking impossible, and rendered the game slower and more uninteresting than would have been the case had weather conditions been more favorable, for it was a noticeable fact that the players on both sides were intensely eager to perform to the best of their ability.

The first period started with McGill pressing the Theologs hard, and it was only good kicking by Hall and Johnson and several good stops by the goal-tender which prevented the former from scoring. However, the play gradually shifted down the field and the period ended with very little advantage to either side.

The second period found the Theologs on the offensive at first, but as both sides seemed to slow up, and it was during this interval that Seaton scored for McGill. This tally seemed to put new life into the opposing teams, the Theologs trying to even the score, McGill working to maintain their lead, and the game ended with both teams working their hardest.

The Theologs unfortunately were unable to produce the same team as last week, and the absence of two or three of their best players demoralized their team considerably. The McGill team showed more team play than their opponents, due no doubt to the fact that they have played together more. Should another match be arranged, soccer enthusiasts can look forward to a good game, for there are several outstanding players on each side.

Vernot and Laidley showed up well. On the whole the showing boded ill for their future opponents.

There will be a practice to-night at 5.15 at the Rubenstein Baths.

Next Tuesday, there will be a great chance for the rooters to help out the water polo teams.

The Intermediates will play Maisonneuve in the first game in the second half of their schedule.

The McGill players are improving every day, and are expected to give the East-enders a good game.

The old standbys, Vickerson and Forsyth, will be out, and are sure to show some good polo.

The Seniors play M.S.C. in the second game of the season. Both teams have beaten M.A.A.A., so the contest should be a battle royal, and whoever wins will be well in line for the Dominion Championship.

Vernot and Ross for McGill are showing some beautiful combination, and will be the source of a lot of trouble to M.S.C.

The rest of the team, Brown, Laidley, Munro and Anson are sure to put up a good game.

Tickets are on sale at the Tuck Shop in the Union lobby, and at the Y. M. C. A.

Reserved seats are 75c and general admission 50c. It is hoped that there will be a good turn-out to support the teams with some snappy rooting.

TO ADDRESS

ronto, in Hart House. The student body gave a great reception to their distinguished visitor, but time did not permit him to give more than a short talk, to the great regret of his listeners.

Last night the Canadian Club of Montreal enjoyed a more lengthy talk from Mr. Kerr on general subjects of interest, and accorded him a hearty welcome. Next Wednesday the undergraduate body will have an opportunity to hear for themselves this eminent Englishman, who is perhaps better qualified than any other man in Canada to give the true account of the history making events of the past eight years.

Prof: "What is space?"
Frosh: "It is—is—is—I have it in my head, Sir, but I can't explain it."

Freshman: "Pop, what is the Latin for people?"
Father: "I've forgotten it, son."
Freshman (pensively): " . . . pop-u-li."
